BE AWARE: Pregnancy Glucose Tolerance Testing is only performed at some of our collection centres. These are: The Canberra Hospital, Tuggeranong Health Centre, Belconnen Health Centre, Gungahlin Health Centre. If you have your testing at the community collection centres there is a possibility that the test may be stopped prematurely if the glucose meter indicates a high fasting glucose result. In these instances it is not considered safe to continue and your doctor will be notified. Depending upon the outcome of confirmatory testing that is subsequently performed at the laboratory, there is a possibility that a recollection may be required. This would need to be undertaken at the Canberra Hospital at which time a high fasting glucose result can be confirmed by the laboratory while you are still at the centre.

When booking an Glucose Tolerance Test, please be aware you will be fasting from 12 midnight and will not be allowed to eat (water is allowed) until the test is completed.
