

Application for Mutual Recognition of Australian Occupation – Radiation Licence

Introduction

The Mutual Recognition Act 1992 (ACT) adopts the Mutual Recognition Act 1992 (Cth) (the MRA).

Principal purpose

One of the principal purposes of the MRA is to provide the means for promoting the freedom of movement of persons in registered occupations between Australian States and Territories.

Equivalent occupations

The MRA enables a person who is registered in connection with an occupation in a State (the first state) to carry on an equivalent occupation in another State (the second state), subject to specified requirements.

General information

A written notice is required for mutual recognition of a registration from another State or Territory.

The notice must:

- state that the person is registered for the occupation in the first State and specify that State; and
- state the occupation for which registration is sought and that it is being sought in accordance with the mutual recognition principles; and
- specify all the States and Territories in which the person has substantive registration for equivalent occupations; and
- state that the person is not the subject of disciplinary proceedings in any State (including any preliminary investigations or action that might lead to disciplinary proceedings) in relation to those occupations; and

- state that the person's registration in any State is not cancelled or currently suspended as a result of disciplinary action; and
- state that the person is not otherwise personally prohibited from carrying on any such occupation in any State, and is not subject to any special conditions in carrying on that occupation, as a result of criminal, civil or disciplinary proceedings in any State; and
- specify any special conditions to which the person is subject in carrying on any such occupation in any State; and
- give consent to the making of inquiries of, and the exchange of information with, the authorities of any State regarding the person's activities in the relevant occupation or occupations or otherwise regarding matters relevant to the notice.

All of the requirements of the notice are outlined in the application form.

The notice must be accompanied by a document that is either the original or a copy of the instrument evidencing the person's existing registration (or, if there is no such instrument, by sufficient information to identify the person and the person's registration).

The person must certify in the notice that the accompanying document is the original or a complete accurate copy of the original instrument evidencing the person's existing registration.

The statements and other information in the notice must be verified by statutory declaration.

Fees

The costs of issuing certificates and licences under the MRA are similar to those for issuing a certificate or licence in the Australian Capital Territory, and hence the standard licence fees apply. There are no additional fees for MRA applications.

Application Process

The completed mutual recognition application form, and copies of the relevant registration documents together with the radiation licence application form and the relevant fee is to be mailed to:
